

User Scenarios

Nicole is a graduate student who lives in New York City. Even though she knows her way around the city, she realizes that she does not know much about the city's background. She would like to know more about places in the city and their significance. Nicole wants something to share about New York City that not only can she talk about it but she can show a friend. She goes to the Urban Memories website and learns about different places in the city. Also, she e-mails her friends a link to the website so they can look at it and talk about it later.

Michael plans to move to New York City because he found a new job. He would like to know more about the city's culture before he moves because he has never been to this city before. He visits to the Urban Memories website and listens to some of the stories there. Michael becomes more comfortable moving to New York City knowing that he will blend in socially and what to expect while he is there.